Rejoice

Scout spotted Nancy through the window and walked over to the back door in order to request a snack. Scout uses the patient, quiet technique. She stands like a statue and sadly gazes at the back door. We usually cave in pretty quickly and take her and Streak a dog biscuit each. That afternoon Nancy took two rib bones we had saved from the previous evening's meal. Streak never showed, so Nancy put his bone back in the refrigerator.

She continued ironing clothes and watching HGTV – the never ending source of ideas for home improvement. Within five minutes Nancy heard a gentle knock on the door near where she was standing. Scout had not done so in months, if not years. Enough disciplinary actions had been taken by us in order to convince her not to touch the back storm door.

When Nancy answered the knock she again saw Scout, but this time she was not alone. Standing behind her was her elder friend Streak. She had brought him to receive what she had enjoyed. Whether Streak had smelled the bone on her breath or discovered her chomping down on it and asked where she got it – Nancy does not know. All she knows is that Scout brought her friend to receive what she had freely received and greatly enjoyed.

With a smile on her face, Nancy retrieved a bone for Streak and another bone for Scout. Who could ignore the sad face of the devoted friend? Scout ended up double dipping when she shared information about what she had discovered.

The same thing happens to us when we encourage others in the Lord. When we point them to the One who can and does help them, we end up receiving a double portion of blessings ourselves. Jesus himself taught and illustrated that it is more blessed to give than to receive. We end up receiving more ourselves when we give to others without expecting anything in return. Seek God's best on behalf of others, and you will receive God's best yourself.

I love you,
Earl
